A New York Times Bestseller

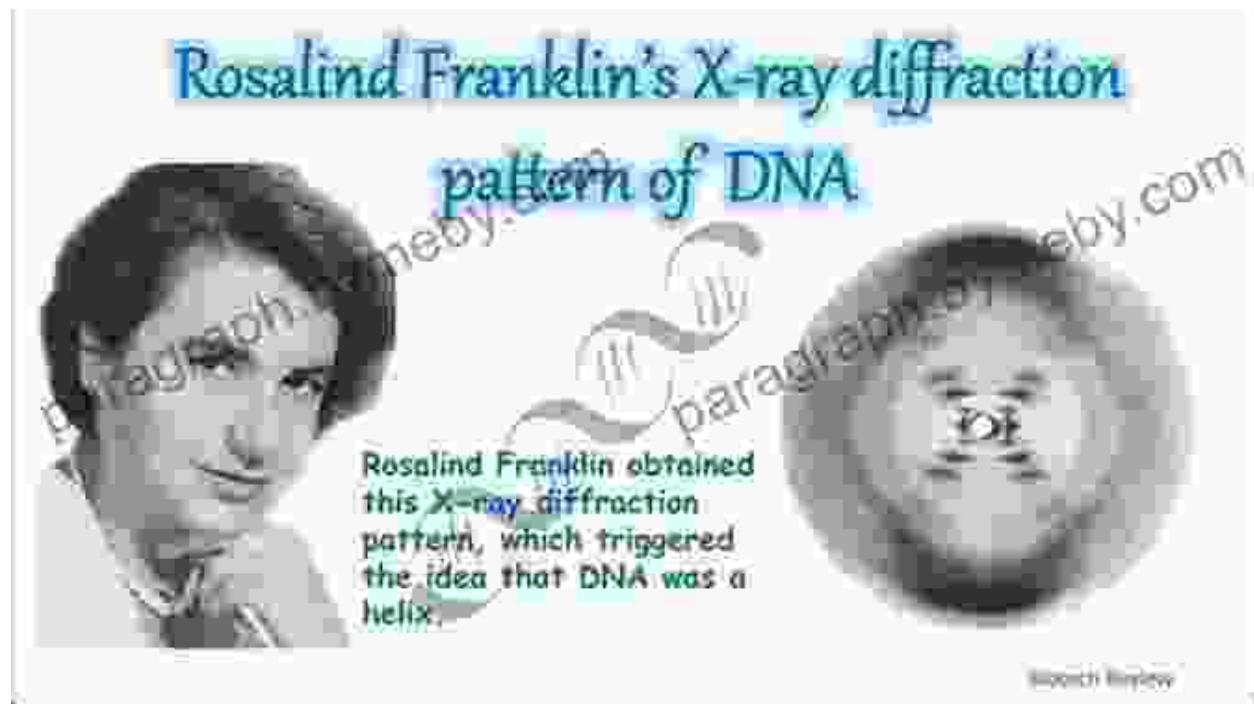

In "Headstrong," journalist Rachel Swaby introduces us to 52 remarkable women who ignored societal expectations and pursued their passions in STEM fields. These women broke down barriers, shattered stereotypes, and made groundbreaking contributions that changed the course of science and the world.

Meet the Trailblazing Women of Science

- Marie Curie

Physicist and chemist who conducted groundbreaking research on radioactivity. She was the first woman to win a Nobel Prize and the only person to win Nobel Prizes in two different scientific fields.

- Rosalind Franklin

Chemist and crystallographer whose X-ray diffraction images were crucial in the discovery of the structure of DNA. Her work was initially overlooked, but she is now recognized as one of the most influential scientists of the 20th century.

- Jane Goodall

Primateologist and anthropologist who dedicated her life to studying chimpanzees in the wild. Her groundbreaking work revolutionized our understanding of animal behavior and the human-animal bond.

- Elizabeth Blackwell

Physician and social reformer who was the first woman to graduate from medical school in the United States. She dedicated her life to improving healthcare for women and children.

- Grace Hopper

Computer scientist and U.S. Navy rear admiral who developed the first compiler for a computer programming language. Her work was instrumental in the development of modern computing and software engineering.

- Chiara Matrazzo

Cancer researcher and CEO of Xcovery, a biotechnology company developing new cancer treatments. She is a pioneer in the field of personalized medicine and has dedicated her career to finding cures for cancer.

Learn About Their Courage, Resilience, and Ingenuity

Through gripping narratives and fascinating anecdotes, Swaby brings these women's stories to life. You'll discover their courage in the face of adversity, their resilience in overcoming obstacles, and their brilliance in making groundbreaking discoveries.
