The novel's protagonist is an unnamed black man who lives in an underground room in Harlem. He is invisible to the world around him, both literally and figuratively. He is ignored and marginalized by white society, and he struggles to find his place in the world.

Invisible Man is a complex and challenging novel, but it is also a rewarding one. Ellison's writing is lyrical and evocative, and he creates a vivid and unforgettable portrait of the African American experience. The novel is a
