A Guide for Nurses to Lead and Drive Change

Nurses are the backbone of the healthcare system. They provide essential care to patients and families, and they play a vital role in ensuring that our communities are healthy. But nurses are also facing a number of challenges, including:

- Low pay and benefits
- Long hours and short staffing
- Lack of respect from other healthcare professionals
- A healthcare system that is increasingly focused on profits over patient care

These challenges are not only affecting nurses, but they are also having a negative impact on the quality of care that patients receive. Nurses are leaving the profession in droves, and those who remain are feeling burned out and undervalued.

But there is hope. Nurses have the power to take back healthcare and create a better system for themselves and their patients. By working together, nurses can lead and drive change in their workplaces and communities.
