Sarah, a young British nurse, is haunted by the memories of the war. She has lost everything: her home, her family, and the man she loved. She is struggling to find her place in the world, and she is drawn to the idea of working with the German prisoners of war who are being held in a nearby camp.

Liesel, a young German woman, is also haunted by the memories of the war. She has lost everything too: her home, her family, and her country.

She is struggling to come to terms with the fact that she is now a prisoner of war, and she is afraid of what the future holds.

When Sarah and Liesel meet, they are both drawn to each other's strength and resilience. They form an unlikely friendship, and they begin to help each other heal from the wounds of the war.

As they spend more time together, Sarah and Liesel begin to fall in love. Their love is forbidden, but it is also powerful and undeniable. They find solace in each other's arms, and they help each other to find the strength to rebuild their lives.

Will Plant You Lilac Tree is a moving and lyrical novel about love, loss, and the power of nature to heal. It is a story about the resilience of the human spirit, and the power of love to overcome even the darkest of times.
